IRONSHAGE TALKS

He Gives His Side of the Money Plan to Defeat
Harvey.

STATEMENT IS WEAK

(Special A. D. Dispatch).
Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 20.—Theodore Kronshage, the man whom it is claimed by Ex-Speaker Buckstaff and State Senator Stout as having the guilty knowledge of $2,000 subscription to defeat Harvey for the nomination of Superintendent of Public Instruction, has come out with a long interview supported by a signed statement from Isaac Stephenson and W. H. Fleet, that Buckstaff and Stout have not told exactly the truth. It is now a question of veracity between these men as to who told the truth about the interview in which Governor LaFollette was said to have received the money subscribed.

Full Of Abuse

This statement of Kronshage is not a strong one and is filled with personal abuse rather than with arguments that are conducive of straightening out the tangle. He goes into the history of the whole tangle and calls Harvey a dangerous man and doubts the veracity of Senator Stout and Speaker Buckstaff. He makes one statement that while it directly clears the Governor in his own mind, he makes it known definitely that Chief Clerk Rogers of the executive chamber did receive the checks made out by Mr. Kronshage and that the money was used to pay campaign expenses. Mr. Rogers as chief clerk would naturally receive all the mail addressed to the Governor and would open and make disposal of the contents without its ever seeing the Governor's desk. If he had been ordered.

Not Used Corruptly

Mr. Kronshage makes the statement that not one penny of the money was used by the Governor corruptly and was simply a campaign subscription. He also denies that he told Mr. Buckstaff or Senator Stout that he talked with Governor LaFollette as to his asking for the money or that LaFollette or Mr. Rogers knew how the money was obtained. The whole statement is one tangle that denies everything and answers nothing definitely except to lay the blame on some one else.

Buckstaff Surprised

Mr. Buckstaff is surprised over the turn that the affair has taken but says that he expected them to be so. He reiterates his charges and says that both he and Senator Stout can not have been mistaken in the conversation they had with Mr. Kronshage or with the Governor. What hurts him most is that he is charged with enmity to the governor.

COAL FROM WALES
BEGINS TO ARRIVEEight Thousand Tons Here and Thirty Thousand More on the Road.

New York, Sept. 20.—(Special).—The first consignment of Welsh anthracite coal, which large dealers and consumers have found it necessary to import on account of the strike in the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania reached this port today on board the British steamer Devonshire, which left Swansea, Wales, on Sept. 5. A second consignment is expected in a few days on board the British steamer Glenloch, which left Swansea four days after the Devonshire sailed.

These two shipments consist of about 3,000 tons. It is reported that orders have been placed in Wales for hundreds of thousands of tons of anthracite, and that contracts have been made for the immediate shipment to this city of from 20,000 to 30,000 tons.

REPORT OF ARMY
BOARD APPROVEDDecide to Continue the Manufacture of the Disappearing Gun Carriage.

Washington, D. C., September 20.—(Special).—Secretary Root has approved the findings and recommendations of the board appointed to conduct tests and report upon the value of disappearing gun carriages for sea coast defenses. The board is unanimous in recommending the continuance of the manufacture of disappearing gun carriages for 8-inch, 10-inch and 12-inch guns, without regard to high or low sites.

Advice of Board

It recommends that no more 6-inch guns be mounted on disappearing carriages, as the development of rapid fire six-inch guns has made it essential that they should be mounted on barbette carriages. In conclusion the board says: "The board desires to record its opinion that the general principles involved in the chief elements and movements of the Building-Crozier disappearing carriage are admirably adapted to their purpose."

NEW YORK MYSTERY
IS CLEARED UPPolice Claim Hooper Young Murdered Mrs. Lillian Pulitzer, in a Flat.

New York, September 20.—(Special).—Quick work on the part of the police today almost cleared the mystery of the murder of Mrs. William Klingston Pulitzer, whose nude body was found in the Morris Canal near Jersey City. It was learned that the woman was killed in a flat at 193 West Fifty-eighth street, where her clothing was found.

This announcement was made tonight by Captain Titus, of the detective bureau, who alleges that the murder was committed by a man named Hooper Young, who has recently been employed in a cheap restaurant. Titus learned that the woman's body was kept for some time under the sink in the kitchen of the flat in which she was killed.

Left New York

Young has not been arrested and is believed to have fled the city. He is said to have shipped a trunk to Chicago last night. He formerly worked for the Hoboken Crusader, and the police found his picture, taken with a group of employees. This picture was shown to the Hoboken liveman, who at once picked out Young as the man who hired a buggy from him on Wednesday night. The weight strap from this buggy was found upon the woman's body.

Damage to Revenue Cutter.

Port Townsend, Wash., Sept. 20.—The fact has developed that the reason for the early return of the revenue cutter Thetis is that the vessel was ashore during a recent visit to Nushagak river in Alaska. Her hull was bent from shape, necessitating a repainting of the water line.

BURGLARS BLEW THE SAFE OPEN,
BUT AFTERWARDS LOST THE SWAGElectric Company Thieves Also Tried the Safe at the Pearl Button Factory, But Were Evidently Frightened, and Left Tools and Money There.

Safe robbers visited the city last night, but outside of wrecking the safe at the office of the Janesville Street Railway company, they secured nothing for their trouble. The money, about $30, that they secured at the railway company's office, they left behind them in a grain sack at the office of the Janesville Pearl Button company, where they had the safe already to blow when frightened away by the arrival of the officers or seeing Thomas Quirk and his brother running up Eastern avenue.

Shortly before twelve o'clock last night Thomas Quirk, the night man at the power house had finished oiling the cars in the car barns and was making his nightly rounds and had started back towards the power-house and office. It was a bright moonlight night and he noticed three men near the rear of the power house. When they saw him they started up the railroad track towards town and he thinking that they were some fellows looking for a place to sleep thought nothing more of them. He went into the power house and locked the front door and after seeing that everything was all right took his dinner pail and went down in a chair near the door of the power room.

Faced The Door

He was facing the rear door to the boiler room and had his lantern settling on the steps beside him. He had just started eating his lunch when there was a crash at the back door which was locked with a small latch and the door flew open. Three men with handkerchiefs tied over the lower part of their faces and armed with revolvers jumped into the rooms through the open door. They immediately covered Quirk with their guns, which Quirk said looked as large as cannons to him and ordered him to throw up his hands which he did.

Blind Quirk

One of the trio produced a soft braided cotton rope from his pocket the rope being about the size of a sash cord, and they soon had Quirk bound and laid him on the floor near the boilers.

One of the trio, a small man, kept watch on Quirk, and also kept a look-out around the building to guard against surprises, while the other two made for the office. Here they found a large double door safe which they began work on at once.

Use Dynamite

From the appearance of the safe they first stopped up all the cracks about the door with soap and made a small cup at the top of the doors, into which the nitro-glycerine was poured until a sufficient quantity had run in around the door when they discharged it with a fuse and a dynamite cap. The report of the charge was loud enough to be heard by the people living at Barney O'Brien's across the street but no attention was paid to it. After the first charge was fired four more charges were set off before they succeeded in getting into the interior of the safe and getting the money. The safe was a complete wreck, both of the heavy outside doors being blown from their hinges and torn to pieces, the office door being covered with pieces of torn and twisted iron and the asbestos and chalk filling of the doors. One inside door was blown from its hinges and destroyed and half of the steel cash drawer door, which was not locked, was blown off. One of the brass handles of the door was blown through a side window and was found outside the building this morning.

But $30 Taken

In the cash drawer to the safe was about thirty dollars in dollars, dimes, nickels and pennies and two checks, one for $17.50 signed by Mr. Blabon and another for $5 signed by the Mark B. Batchelder Co. of Peoria, Ill. The robbers gobbled the contents of the drawer with the exception of the $17.50 check, and placed it in a grain sack and came back to the boiler room where Quirk and the third robber were.

During all the time the men had been going through the safe Quirk laid bound on the brick floor of the boiler-room listening to the reports of the nitro-glycerine. The third man kept watch of him all the time and once when Quirk wiggled around a bit he walked over to where he lay and picking up a large monkey wrench rubbed it along his cheek to let him know that if he did not lie still that he would rap him on the head with the wrench.

Shortly afterwards the two men that had blown the safe appeared. One of them after getting a wad of waste for a pillow for Quirk's head and telling him to remain quiet, spoke to the other two and they all departed by the way of the back door. As soon as the men had left Quirk began to pull and twist at his bonds. The cord which is soft had considerable stretch in it and he soon had his hands loose. He then pulled out his knife and cut the cord about his feet and released himself.

When he had freed himself, his first thought was to run to his home only a short distance down Eastern avenue from the power house and get his brother who had a revolver. In his excitement he forgot all about the telephone in the office and to call Chief Hogan. He ran out the front door down to his home and secured his brother. They hurried back to the power house, and his brother at once called up the

GUNBOAT READY
FOR EMERGENCIESBancroft Will Be Stationed at Porto Rico, Ready to Meet All Calls.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—(Special).—The navy department has hit upon a plan by which it can be much better prepared for the emergencies that are continually arising on the isthmus of Panama, in Hayti and in Venezuela. Orders have been issued directing that that gunboat Bancroft, now at the Boston navy yard, be placed in commission. When the vessel is ready it is the purpose to assign her as station ship at San Juan, Porto Rico. This move will enable the government to have a war ship ready to sail 900 miles to the isthmus, 500 to Venezuela or about 100 to Hayti, as occasion may demand, and to do away with the long trips from New York or Boston, which have been necessary many times recently because of the lack of a war ship in close proximity to the scene of the trouble.

Ready For Use

Of course, it may happen that more than one war ship will be needed in emergencies which are apt to arise at any time in the South American republics, but nevertheless at all times it is felt that one vessel "on the ground" is a long step toward entire preparedness. The Bancroft carries a main battery of four 4-inch rapid firing guns, and has a secondary battery of eight 3-pounders and one 1-pounder, rapid-fire, and a Colt. Her complement is ten officers and 113 men.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

President Roosevelt spent today in Cincinnati.

Marie Henrietta, Queen of the Belgians, died of heart disease at Spa after a long illness.

The steamer Fram with the Sverdrup expedition on board arrived in Norway from the arctic.

Topsoil, a two-year-old gelding ran away at the Hawthorne course, Chicago, under unusual circumstances.

Chicago pastors promised the Federated Clerks' council to aid in a movement toward Sunday closing of stores.

Aeronaunt Spencer passed over London in an air ship of his own make which seemed to be under perfect control.

Investigation showed that the embezzlements of the fugitive Vienna cashier amounted to about $1,150,000.

Two were killed and over forty injured in a wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern near Chillicothe, Ohio.

Marconi submitted a plan for a wireless telegraph line from Italy to Britain and America to cost $140,000.

Children between the ages of seven and eleven will be carried for half fare by the Chicago Union Traction company.

Governor Yates received a report of the state board of charities on the condition of the asylum at Kankakee, Illinois.

Western and eastern railroads have rapidly carried on a system of curtailing their free transportation of aldermen.

An assignment with liabilities of $212,567 was made by the Rhoades-Carmean carriage company of Marshalltown, Iowa.

Commander Cowles was examined at Washington in anticipation of a vacancy and his promotion into the next higher grade.

Secretary Shaw authorized the distribution of $10,000,000 among the banks throughout the country which had bonds available for security.

No assignment of duty will be given to Commander Peary by the Navy Department until he has expressed his wishes regarding another polar trip.

Europe's western nations welcomed Secretary Hay's letter to the signatories of the Berlin treaty regarding the treatment of the Jews in Roumania.

Officers of the U. S. Signal corps will experiment on a wireless telegraph system which may be carried on the backs of the members of the corps.

In the Chicago case of Miss Stevens against the notorious Constable Greenberg, the jury found that she was entitled to her property, and assessed damages of $2,500 against Greenberg.

United States Naval Commander McLean practically took control of the Panama railroad; the transportation of the Panama troops on the regular train was refused.

William J. Gallagher, in the hope of escaping a prison sentence, offered to confess the Chicago Union Traction transfer bribery plot, involving the company's higher officials.

Mrs. Philomena Appleton, a teacher in the Englewood business college, was granted a divorce for desertion from her husband who wrote "a nut" for "chough" and "I" for "L."

A. E. Whitcomb and his victim, William Sampson, died within an hour of each other at Battle Creek, Mich. Mrs. Notter, love for whom caused the tragedy, is likely to recover.

In a report adopted by the Chicago council health committee, Building Commissioner Klobbass was virtually charged with being the cause of the St. Luke's hospital fire horror.

By a promise that the firm would reimburse the girls for lower pay under the new system of work the girl cracker packers' strike in Chicago was ended through the state arbitration board.

Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labor, declared in a Chicago interview that arbitration is a poor way to settle a strike; both sides are usually dissatisfied over the result.

Louis Pierce, formerly a well-known real estate dealer of Milwaukee, ended his life in Minneapolis by shooting himself.

Shoot Charge

Roosting Brothers could find no way of neutralizing the nitro-glycerine in their safe and could get no one to try and open it when the nitro-glycerine was there, so decided that the only way to do was to explode it. Accordingly they secured a fuse and a cap and fired the charge. Considerable of the stuff had run out of the bottom of the door so that when the charge was fired it did not blow the door open, but cracked it near the center and blew off one corner. This will necessitate a new door.

Men Described

Watchman Quirk said one of the men was rather tall and had on an overcoat. The others were of slight build, especially the man that kept watch over him. He had a good look at him and although he had his face covered with a handkerchief thinks he could recognize him if he saw him again.

Police Have Clue

Chief Hogan made a careful survey of the two offices this morning and is satisfied that the men that did the work are members of a gang that have been blowing safes all over the state and understood their business. The only thing they left behind, outside of the grain sack and the old axe was a broken glass syringe that they used to draw the nitro glycerine out of the bottle and inject it into the cup or openings in the safe. This was left in the street car office.

Miss Van Antwerp, that lives at Burns' across the street from the power house, heard the explosions and got out of bed and looked out doors but could see nothing, so went back to bed.

SPOONER WILL TOUR THE STATEHas Already Arranged to Speak in Wisconsin Cities.

FOLLOWS HIS RULE

Always Takes the Stump in National and State Campaigns.

ROSE GETS ABUSIVE

(Special A. D. Dispatch).
Madison, Wis., Sept. 20.—It has been learned definitely that Senator Spooner has been planning for some time to take the stump in Wisconsin this fall and that he is now delaying answering the invitation of the central committee in the fear that by so doing he will tie himself down to their program and it will not leave him free to make his own arrangements he had planned some time since. He has had a long conference with the President and with Secretary Payne and also with the leading senators and campaign managers in the east. It is known that he will speak in the east and also that he had planned to speak in Wisconsin.

Is Foot Free

Senator Spooner has given up his summer home in New Hampshire and with his wife, is at present in New York. It is said that he has had much to do in arranging the President's western tour and has advised with him and others as to the best methods by which the questions of the day are to be taken up by the Chief Executive on his trip. That he has made speeches every year in Wisconsin at the time of the state and national campaigns is well known. One man high up in his councils states that three months ago he planned to come to Wisconsin this fall for a part of the campaign, having accepted special invitations to speak in cities some months ago, long before the state central committee made up his mind to task him.

Select Headquarters

Chairman Bryant has decided not to move away from the Pfister hotel with the republican headquarters and rent a store as he threatened some time ago. He states now that the Jefferson side of the building will be used as formerly. Chairman Bryant will not say much on the present political situation except that all is going well. In his absence Zeno Host will have charge of the headquarters and it is announced that they will be opened on next Monday with a full force of clerks and a deluge of campaign documents.

Mayor Rose's campaign will be hindered and the present plans of the democratic nominee will have to be re-arranged if he goes back to greet Roosevelt as is now planned. The Mayor of the Brewery City is making a whirlwind campaign and is covering much ground each day. Republican leaders, however, say that his campaign of abuse will not make him any votes but rather lose them for him, as he is too personal in his attacks.

BARTHOLOIN "DEATH HOUSE" OCCUPIEDCourt Gives the Half Brother Permission to Move Into the Calumet Avenue Residence.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—(Special).—The Bartholin "death house" at 4310 Calumet avenue is to have an occupant. Judge Dunne yesterday granted to Frederick Bartholin, half brother of the murderer of his mother and his fiancée, permission to move into the residence where the aged woman was strangled to death and where the young woman may have been killed. At the end of thirty or forty days, if a proper showing be made, Judge Dunne promises to remove the receiver for the property. This promise was made when Bartholin asked the court for possession of the property. The property is mortgaged for $500. The objection to the removal of the receiver was based on the fear that relic hunters might attack the property.

COURT DECISION
MAY FREE MANYUnique Proposition Confronts New York Police Magistrate's Decisions in the Past.

New York, Sept. 20.—(Special).—Should the view of Judge Wilmet M. Smith be upheld it is estimated that 2,000 persons serving sentences in the four county jails of Greater New York may be released. The judge rendered this opinion on a writ of habeas corpus obtained for two young men who were arrested a month ago on their charge of disorderly conduct. It was held by the court that no magistrate in the city of New York had the right to do anything more than to hold an alleged offender for a higher court or for the grand jury. He said not only that there was no such thing as disorderly conduct, but that all that a police magistrate could do when a prisoner was accused of intoxication was to hold him while his case was being investigated by the commissioner of charities. The matter probably will be submitted to the Appellate court for a ruling.

BELOIT HAS CARNIVAL NEXT

"A WEEK WITHOUT SLEEP," SO THEY SAY IT IS.

WILL ELECT A FAIR QUEEN

Plans Are Laid for a Novel Lot of Features for the Jahrmarkt.

Arrangements have been completed for the Beloit free street fair and Jahrmarkt, which will be held all of next week. Numbers of lanterns are now being strung up and down the main streets, in anticipation of the "week of innocent amusement," the "week without sleep," as it has been characterized. If the word of the promoters may be taken, the Line City's carnival will be comprised of elevating and educational attractions such as will rival the curriculum of a state university.

Five Cent Ballots.
Voting for the queen of the carnival will be used as a means to gain funds for the Strong Emergency hospital. Ballots will be on sale at five cents each and the entire proceeds will be turned over to the hospital by the street fair committee.

Rivals College.
Speculations are rife as to the effect which the Jahrmarkt attractions will have on the college students. Wednesday of next week will be the registration day, and many of the college men will be on hand early in the week. It is not likely that much studying will be done during the first few days of the term.

MOST CONVENIENT CAR SERVICE

Beloit and Rockford Are Very Closely Connected Now by the Inter-Urban Road.

Manager Peck's Rockford Grand theater bids fair to be well patronized by Beloit people this winter. This fact was evidenced by the satisfaction which was given by the B. & J. Interurban theater service Wednesday night. On that occasion over seventy five Line City theatergoers attended the performance of "Lazarre" in Rockford and it is needless to say that they were enthusiastic over Otis Skinner and his company.

Theater Parties Possible
What was noted with most interest by those who made the trip was the possibilities which the Interurban line puts before them. The almost palatial cars make the trip a pleasure and the connections are such that theater parties can easily be arranged. Especially after Beloit college opens it is expected that large numbers of students will use this opportunity of attending the best productions of the season, on the dates when they are billed at the Rockford house.

The principle of dependence is well brought out in an article in Mahlin's Magazine for August. Among other things the writer says: "We know of no object which is independent of all things. In fact, the value of all objects depends upon the relationships which it has to other things. We think of things only in their relations, and these relationships fuse and constitute the object as we know it."

FOOT BALL TALK FROM ALL OVER

Beloit Will Have a Stronger Team This Year Than Ever Before.

By this time a every veteran foot ball college in the west has a team of husky old timers and promising youngsters out on the gridiron for daily training. The battered and battle scarred moleskins have been resurrected, the arnica and witchhazel bottles refilled, the men are gritting their teeth ready for the fray.

Forty Men Out
At Madison nearly forty men are out, and Coach King has already prescribed some stiff work. The new men have become used to handling and falling on the ball and formation work has been taken up. Particular attention has been given to the prospective backs in carrying the ball and to the line. All minds are occupied in attempting to devise a means of walking off with the championship at the end of the season, and the return of Emil Skow to fill his old place has made the outcome seem less dubious. It is hoped, too, that Schreiber will be re-instated in his old place soon.

The Critical Contest.
Phil King regards the game with Michigan as the telling contest of the season, but the members of the squad are taking more interest in the possibility of a western trip during the Christmas holidays.

The one item for which all are waiting is the consent of the faculty. The trip would give games with Lehigh, Stanford and the University of California.

Jumped the Team.
Chicago has been temporarily downcast by the departure of Hall and Diekey to join the Michigan forces, but the Midway school is not contemplating leaving the arena on that account. Several high school hopefuls have appeared, making over forty men on Marshall field every afternoon. Four teams will be organized and put through a strenuous course of sprouts.

Coming to the Front.
Under the coaching of E. S. Merrill an unusual interest has been awakened in the Methodist institution at Appleton. Twenty-five candidates have appeared in uniform and the first scheduled game of the season will be played at Madison against the state university. Lawrence hopes to make her presence known in the west this season.

Strong Backs.
Beloit's call for players brought out eight old men and a number of candidates for the disputed positions. Captain Smith does not expect a number of his men until next week. As has been the case for some years there is an abundance of material for the positions behind the line, but it will be more difficult to fill the tackles, guards and center.

FROST DOES BUT LITTLE DAMAGE

Tobacco Crop is Not Hurt, But the Growing Corn is Slightly Injured.

The heavy frost that touched the crops left standing in the low places has about closed the harvesting season for Janesville and its vicinity for the present year. Little or no tobacco was lost as the warning had been given in time and the tobacco growers had all of their crops in a safe place before the danger arrived.

Corn Injured.
Corn, however, was not so fortunate. Many acres of this cereal were ruined from not being stacked, or even cut and while the loss will not be large still it will lessen the crop production for the year. The difference between the corn and tobacco results is so noticeable that it is probable that farmers will devote more ground to the weed than they did this year.

Excellent Leaves
The excellence of the tobacco crop is noticeable, the stems of the earlier plants being nearly cured and of a rich bright color. This and the remarkable fineness of the leaves gives promise of a long season of stripping during the winter months.

A Modern Magdalene

In the appearance here at the Myers Grand opera house, Sept. 26, of the Amella Bingham Special company in "A Modern Magdalene" it is no rash assertion to say that it is the best company for general dramatic endeavor touring the country today. Stars come and go, wax and wane in the dramatic drama, but a perfectly equipped organization endears itself forever to the refined and fashionable theatergoer; and the success accorded Miss Bingham in her productions means the permanency of this company. It is not extravagant to say that the names of W. Ferguson, Franklin Roberts, Daniel Jarrett, Victor M. de Silke, Harry Lillard, Bernard C. McGuire, Frederick Leet, Agnes Findlay, Katherine Fisher, Maud Furness, Grace Cornish, Evelyn Haven, Lillian Wright and Roselle Knott, are familiar to every theatergoer, as actors of rare ability, each of whom has starred at some time or other or who have been identified with the most striking successes of the stage. Although "A Modern Magdalene" is new to theatergoers, it was especially selected for this company and enjoyed a most prosperous career of three months at the Bijou Theater, New York; and it is only reasonable to expect that a treat is in store for lovers of the drama. Written by Haddon Chambers, the author of that intense play, "Captain Swift," it is described as equally novel in treatment and tells in a series of scenes most startling and passionate in intensity and as graphic as a page from Balzac, the fortunes of a beautiful young woman who sacrifices her honor in order to save her younger sister from death.

MEN ARE TRIED OUT BY PRACTICE

Coach King Instructs Wisconsin Football Aspirants by Formation Plays and Signal Drill.

The Wisconsin football squad has had no scrimmage practice as yet, but the preliminary work of the past week has been the hardest the candidates have ever been given so early in the season, the reason for this being the necessity of getting a team into shape for the game with Michigan, which is only six weeks away, Nov. 1. The first line-up for scrimmage practice will be held early next week, and the first game will be played next Saturday afternoon with the Lawrence university team.

Only Five Back
Only five of last year's eleven have been in the practice thus far, these being Capt. Juneau, Driver, Lerum, Fogg and Holstein, but Skow, the husky center, Abbott, end, and Ham-merson, tackle, will be on hand next week. Apparent weakness in the back field has sent Capt. Juneau from end to half back, and if the change is permanent, as now seems probable, there are two line positions to be filled, Curtis' old place at tackle and Juneau's at end. A faster man than Holstein may also be found for guard, Horthick, from the Milwaukee Medics will probably play either guard or tackle; Long, Remp, Eberts and Findlay, are also likely men for tackle, while either Dunn, who has not yet arrived, or Bartlett, a sub-half last year, but now being played at end, are probabilities for Juneau's old place at end. Findlay has also been worked at end in part of the practice, and may stay there instead of at tackle.

The Halfs
Moffatt and Juneau are the best thus far for the half-back positions, with Vanderhook, from Sacred Heart academy, Gilkey from Oshkosh high, Franzke, Hetzel from Merrill high, Vanderwall and others are still to be tried out, the two latter having joined the squad today. Fogg will undoubtedly play quarter back; his competitors are Lillequist, a sub last year, Pense from Cumberland, Cecil Schreiber and Tanner, a light weight from Monrovi. Driver will probably play full back again.

"Haverly's" Mastodon Minstrels
The average tenor will labor a life time to reach the high C. George Morgan, the young Englishman, who is this season re-engaged with Haverly's Minstrels, soars nearly an octave above the high C; indeed reaches notes that the male voice has never before been known to attain. This vocal marvel last season created a sensation in England with the famous Moore & Burgess' Minstrels of London, but a tempting salary caused him to cross the pond and join the Haverly's.

FIRST GYMNASIUM WORK MONDAY

Y. M. C. A. PLANS FOR EXERCISES DURING WINTER.

CONVENIENT HOURS ARRANGED

Two Days a Week Will Be Devoted to These Classes, for Business Men.

In the course of the past few weeks Physical Director W. E. Mack has induced a large number to enter the young men's and business men's gymnasium classes, which begin next week in connection with the Y. M. C. A. All preparations have been made and while the number cannot be given definitely it is expected that many will enter both classes.

Convenient Hours
After considerable changing and shifting of hours, a schedule has been arranged which should make it an easy matter for all to attend at least two classes a week. From 4:30 to 5:30 will be the hours reserved for the work, the young men's and the business men's classes being assigned to different days.

Start Next Week
On Monday night the young men will first meet for their preliminary work preliminary to a stiff course of training to continue for the next eight or nine months. The business and professional men will meet for the first time one day later, but their work will be more moderate, and better suited to those who lead a more or less sedentary and confined life.

PROMOTER BERGER HAS A NEW PLAN

Would Form a Giant Carnival Company Combine to Control All Business.

Surpassing in magnitude all his previous ventures, J. S. Berger of the Morris-Berger carnival company which was in this city a few weeks ago, is now engineering the plans for a carnival trust with a capitalization of $500,000. Forty more midway and street fair companies will be embraced and for several days representatives of twenty-six of them have been in Neenah in consultation with Mr. Berger.

The details of the organization have been perfected but nothing more definite will be made public until some time next week when the articles of incorporation will be filed in New Jersey.

To Crush Weak
As explained by the leaders in the movement there are a large number of inferior carnival companies in the United States, and it is to freeze them out that the larger organizations are combining. Although the Elks have tabooed the carnival idea, the promoters of companies do not think that the popularity of the street fair will lessen, and this new organization is expected to prove an incentive toward higher standards.

Will Gain Control
J. S. Koch of the American carnival company and Mr. Morris of the Morris-Berger combination are also prominent in the organization of the proposed trust, and they are confident that the trust can control the street fair and carnival business of the country.

THINK HE IS THE SAME WILD MAN

The Calumet Freak Thought To Be Known in Janesville by the Police.

The following dispatch from Calumet, Michigan may be of interest to Janesville and persons living in the vicinity of Janesville when the mysterious wild man held away near Hanover several years ago:

Calumet, Mich., Sept. 18.—From a wild man running amuck in the woods and terrorizing the fishermen along the lake shore to a clean shaven, clipped, respectfully clothed old negro is quite a transformation. All this has been accomplished in the case of Smith, the copper country's wild man, with the use of soap, water, a razor, shears and the purchase of new apparel. Smith, for that is the only name he knows, was taken in hand by Sam Lawrence, a farmer who placed him in his barn, where the curious were charged 25 cents a head to see the wild man. Then he decided all the old fellow needed was a bath, shave, haircut and some clean clothing, and soon transformed the once wild man into a clean, respectable looking fellow, and gave him employment on the farm.

Same Man
The police of this city are confident that the above mentioned negro is the same one that frightened the people around Johnston and was in Appleby near Hanover, by W. H. Appleby and Dr. E. D. Roberts, during Appleby's term as sheriff. He was turned out here and sent to Chicago soon after he was arrested.

"Knickerbocker" Waists...

We bought "Knickerbocker" Waists for fall and winter on the strength of the fact that they were taking well in the cities and also because shirt waists made of Heavy Cotton Mercerized Materials were being advocated by so prominent a manufacturer as the maker of "Knickerbocker" Waists. Although made of Cotton, they are as warm as wool and are taking well. They launder nicely and fit perfectly, which has been proven to the entire satisfaction of many women.

The accompanying cut represents a $2.50 number, a stylish production. White and light cream are in high favor, and white with black dots or stripes sell well. We show many styles at $1.50 to $6.00.

INDIANS ALSO HAD THEIR LOVES

A SAD TALE OF SAVAGE LOVE AND ITS RESULTS.

FROM THE PEN OF B. F. NOWLAN

Interesting Romance Found Among the Papers of the Late Journalist.

The late B. F. Nowlan was a versatile writer and he occasionally produced historical sketches in a vein of fiction that were both entertaining and instructive. The following sketch has never appeared in type, and as it deals with local interests in early days, it will be read with pleasure by Gazette readers.

A ROMANCE OF SAVAGERY.

For sheer fifty feet steep walls of solid rock ascend from the narrow bottom of a dry watercourse on the banks of Rock river near Janesville. At the mouth of the watercourse is a spot where the water was never known to freeze. Ripples constantly radiate from a common center, and the waters are never stilled. Pleasure seekers from a neighboring summer resort frequently visit this beauty spot, and often remark that the wavelets chase each other out into the current so strangely. People of a practical turn of mind insist the gully is nature's handiwork, and that the never-quiet spot is caused by a flowing spring, but the Indians who occasionally stray down from the reservation in the northern part of the Badger state, tell a different story—a legend, if you please—in which the sufferings of an Indian maiden, and the tears and tragic death of her trusty lover are held responsible.

Old Chief Long Hair, the head of the Onondas, and his band, were in camp on the banks of the beautiful lake Kegonsa, near Madison. The wilds of Wisconsin had not yet echoed with the tread of the white man, and the Indian had not yet learned that civilization meant to him, as the usual thing, degradation rather than elevation. Old Long Hair's camp was at the foot of a sloping hill. Below, the waves of the lake tumbled and rolled onto the sandy beach, while the virgin forest sheltered the game upon which the red men lived. There were between two and three hundred Indians in the camp, and Old Long Hair ruled them with a rod of iron. He was taciturn and stern and his tribe's people held him in awe. A look of recognition of the old chief was a personal favor, while a growl was an unusually friendly greeting. Even Long Hair's squaw feared to speak to him, and no monarch ever controlled more absolutely the destinies of his people.

But there was one person in the camp that had an influence over the sullen old chief—Laughing Eyes, his only daughter. She did not fear him, and the old man loved her dearly. Laughing Eyes was tall and straight. She had her father's commanding mien and manner. The braves looked upon her as a sort of divinity, but her gentleness had earned for her the name of "Laughing Eyes."

It was not strange, therefore, that all the young braves aspired to the hand of Laughing Eyes. Her beauty, her grace, and her thoughtfulness, together with her influence with her father, all helped to make her the idol of each savage breast. Thus were the father and daughter who ruled the Onondas at their picturesque camp. They were simple minded savages. Even the hairy Jesuits had not yet penetrated their solitude, and the shadow of the white man had never fallen on their tepees. They dwelt in peace and plenty, surrounded with all their savage nature desired.

All? Yes, all—so far as Long Hair was concerned.

But Laughing Eyes—Neither civilization or savagery has yet produced the woman who remained happy under her father's roof for ever.

Laughing Eyes was a savage, but that unknown quantity, love, had entered into her soul, and her heart was torn.

Now savage warwhoops resounded through that once peaceful camp. A great fire blazes, and about it, painted savages dance. The squaws beat time on rude drums, and drone a doleful accompaniment, while the braves leap and twist. Twenty young braves have reached the age when it is to be decided whether or not they shall wear the eagle feathers of a chief. They are to be tested with fire, and as they dance about the blazing pile, they steel their hearts for torture.

Laughing Eyes sits by her father. She is as moody and preoccupied as the old chief himself. Her gaze follows two of the dancing braves. One of them is tall and athletic, with clear cut features and straight wiry limbs. The other is less handsome, but there is more gentleness in his makeup. Young Wolf is the giant, and the other is Crafty Fox. Laughing Eyes hopes, apparently, are hardly equally centered in these two young braves, and it is quite evident that Young Wolf can scarcely hope to supplant the Fox in her affections.

The time of actual torture has arrived, and the ceremony is begun. Let us pass over the horrible details the young men underwent, and look only upon the final trial.

In the center of the throng is a pole. To its top is attached twenty strands of rawhide, and at the end of each strand is a stout wooden skewer. On the center of each skewer is a small bundle of fagots, each containing the same number of sticks of equal size. About the foot of the pole, but far enough away so as not to burn the shaft, are more fagots. In the crowd are twenty young women—the sweethearts of the young braves—who hold flaming torches.

Old Long Hair addresses the people. The points of the skewers are to be thrust under the skin on the breast of the braves, he says. Then the women are to light the fagots on the skewers, and the wood about the pole. The braves are then to dance about the fire, and the one who holds out the longest, shall be the chief. If any brave cries out he is to be slain of his weapons, and made to do squaw's work. At the command of Old Long Hair, the skewers are affixed. An instant later twenty torches have been applied to twenty breasts, and twenty savages are dancing around a sheet of flame in an agonizing test of endurance. Their eyes bulge from their heads in pain as they wildly prance. One by one they fall exhausted, until only the Wolf and the Fox remain. With faces distorted beyond all human shape they dance, while flames eat at their very vitals. The Fox catches the gaze of Laughing Eyes. Her face is melted with pity, and when he sees her, an unearthly wail of agony rings through the camp. An instant later a score of squaws are beating the Fox, while the Wolf—insensible and apparently dying—is carried to the tent of the chief.

The Fox, pursued by the women, rushes aimlessly into the wood—only to come sneaking back to camp in time to see the Wolf decorated with the eagle feathers, and made second in command to Old Long Hair. That night the Fox was made to run the gauntlet, and then set to work with the women. And from that day on, he was "the Coward"—despised by the men, and abused, and even beaten by the women.

But the Coward chafed under his wrongs. His heart was as stout as oak, and it was not with pain that he cried out, but because his very being was stung by the look that Laughing Eyes had shot at him, it was not because he lacked manhood that he stayed at the camp, but because Laughing Eyes was there. None of the braves knew this. They thought him "an Indian with the spirit of a dog." But Laughing Eyes knew—her feminine instinct told her—and her heart bled for the Coward, yet she dared not recognize him.

One day they met alone at the spring that supplied the camp. "Laughing Eyes," he said beseechingly.

She only turned her head away. "Then," replied the Coward in broken hearted tones, "there is nothing left. I shall go. 'Way back in the hills the crows will pick the eyes from the body of the Coward.'"

Then he strode in the forest. Laughing Eyes watched him until he disappeared. Then her ideas seemed to become clear, and plunging into the wood, she followed him.

The Wolf was proud in his eagle feathers. "Now," he mused as he put on the final touch of warpaint, "I can go and ask Laughing Eyes."

The young chief was the object of all gazes as he walked toward Old Long Hair's home.

"Where is Laughing Eyes?" he asked of the old chief.

"Gone to woods; pick berries."

The Wolf turned away, and to the spring. Nothing escaped his sharp eye as he swung along, and the footprints where Laughing Eyes and the Coward had crossed the stream were quickly noticed.

"Ugh!" he grunted, "so Laughing Eyes sneaks off with the Coward; good thing we marked his moccasins. I will bring them to camp. Long Hair will deal with her, but I will deal with the Coward. Here they separate, but never mind, I will find them."

Then, with arrow notched in his bow, the Wolf crept cautiously through the forest.

The Coward reached Lake Monona ere he stopped. Then he sat down to think. Laughing Eyes took a shorter route, and hardly had he paused ere she came up to him.

"Crafty Fox," she called.

He turned his head.

"You forget," he answered bitterly, "I am the Coward."

"Not to me," she answered. "I know it all. You are not the Coward, you—"

A stick broke with a snap in the wood behind them, and both started.

"It is nothing," said Laughing Eyes, as she sat down at the Coward's feet.

"Then you believe in me?" asked the Coward in tones that spoke his hope.

"Yes," said Laughing Eyes simply.

The Coward did not answer, but with a bound he clasped Laughing Eyes in his arms. She looked up at him, and smiled.

"Ping!" came an arrow so close that it scraped the Coward's flesh.

Laughing Eyes whirled about to protect her lover, and the Wolf, his face distorted with rage and hate, burst through the thicket. For a

MISS FAY LEE,

President of the Shakespearean Club, Kansas City.

"Your booklet came to my home like a message of health when I had suffered with headache, backache and bearing-down pains. I was weak, nervous and hysterical and had not consulted any doctor, thinking it would pass away in time, but instead I found that the pains increased and were more frequent. I decided to try Wine of Cardui and in a short time was much improved. It seemed to act like a charm. I kept up the treatment and the result was most satisfactory. Words fail to express my gratitude for the suffering that is now saved me. I am in fine health, physically and mentally. I can only say 'Thank you', but there is much more in my heart for you."

BEARING-DOWN pains are the worst that women know. If you are suffering from this trouble you need not be uncertain about it. The pains in the abdomen and back that feel as if heavy weights were pulling down on the nerves of the stomach are "bearing-down pains". They may not be particularly severe at present but they are growing worse. That headache which nearly drives you distracted now is caused by the terrible nervous tension. The nerves soon begin to give way under the strain. You perhaps jump at any unusual disturbance, or laugh or weep, hysterically, at no apparent cause. That is what Miss Fay Lee, 609 1/2 North Seventh Street, Kansas City, Kansas, was coming to when she rescued herself by taking Wine of Cardui. The Wine made her a strong, healthy woman again, as it has made a million other women strong and healthy. By inducing regular menstruation the entire system is relieved of the terrible wasting drains. The ligaments which hold the womb in place are strengthened by a healthy flow and that organ is returned to its normal position. Returning health is the result. This is what Wine of Cardui has done for thousands of the best women in America.

If you need advice write The Ladies' Advisory Department, The Chattanooga Medicine Company, Chattanooga, Tenn., describing all your symptoms freely, and a letter of advice will be sent you. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist to-day.

A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

THE POWER BEHIND THE THRONE.

Every man and woman in this fair land, may occupy a throne and rule a kingdom. If they will, but the measure of success attained will all depend upon the power behind the throne.

There are three things necessary to a perfect kingdom, and they are well rounded physical, mental and moral development. It is possible to be a giant physically and neglect both mind and heart, and it is possible to have a well equipped mind, in a frame that is physically weak, and with a heart enthroned that is not in harmony with Divine requirements.

While it is true that the heart may beat in sympathy with holy aspirations enfolded in a weak body, and handicapped by an uncultivated mind, yet regret is ever present, that both physical and mental development do not contribute to greater success and wider influence.

In every department of human endeavor, power is recognized as the great essential force. Without it, nothing is accomplished, and with it, properly applied and controlled, nothing seems impossible.

This is true concerning inanimate machinery. It matters not how perfect the mechanism, it is powerless, until power is applied to produce results. The mogul engine, attached to the overland train, as it stands on the crest of a grade, may descend into the valley at rapid pace, by the power of momentum, but when it strikes the upgrade, and the long mountain climb is commenced, the power of steam is necessary to keep the pistons in motion, and perform the work.

Steam is the power behind the throne that contributes so largely to the world's activities. Invisible, unassuming, yet always reliable, it possesses elements of latent strength that characterize power in every department of toil.

Man represents the most perfect piece of mechanism that exists. He was planned to accomplish more than the engine, and while he would be powerless to move the heavy train over the mountain grade, yet with brain and hand he devises and puts in operation the agencies that perform the task.

As there appears to be no limit to the power of steam, so there is no limit to the power of brain and heart when both are consecrated to service.

Unlike mechanical power that a little fuel and water create in a given time, the power possessed by humanity is of slow and patient accumulation. Some one has said that "knowledge is power," but the statement is not true, any more than would be the statement that steam is power. One is as helpless as the other until properly applied.

Knowledge in itself, is as helpless as steam. Both are useless and dangerous unless properly applied.

The world is not suffering today for lack of knowledge, neither are people making a failure of life on this account. The great element of power behind the throne of any honest endeavor, is the ability to apply and utilize knowledge.

Ability is not the only requisite. Ambition and disposition are indispensable. Any man would laugh at his wife if she proposed to follow him and duplicate his work in the shop, on the farm or in any other department where muscle and physical endurance represent the capital invested.

His knowledge extends to the wood pile back of the house, and he is familiar with the route to the kitchen, and knows how to start the breakfast fire, but his disposition prompts him to permit the wife to be the bearer of wood and water. He regards the kitchen as her private domain and a precinct too sacred to be invaded.

It is not at all strange, under these conditions, and they are familiar, that the old lady who had been bereft of her husband said to a neighbor, "I hope John has gone where it is warm, for he always enjoyed sitting by a good fire."

The human body is a reservoir, capable of great possibilities and unmeasured resources. The mother looks at the baby with dimpled cheeks and chubby legs and arms, and discovers an object of innocent helplessness. Her thought flashes on into the years and paints a picture of perfect manhood.

She says, "God helping me, I will nourish this child and equip him physically, mentally and morally for the great work of life." She realizes that in the early years, the care of the baby is of first importance, and so her thought and care are devoted to physical development. With nourishing food and plenty of outdoor air and exercise, the muscles harden while strength and endurance come with the years.

When he takes his place in the ranks of boyhood, she encourages him to take care of himself and fight his own battles. She has no fear that he will become too athletic and as she watches the rosy cheeks and evidences of health, a feeling of satisfaction crowns her efforts.

In this case of the baby, she has not failed to note the dawning of intellect and the unfolding of mind, as it grasps the problems of boyhood life, neither has she neglected the moral training so necessary to life in its early stages.

This threefold responsibility comes to her at times with a feeling of grave apprehension, but if she is a wise mother, she assumes the care with loving cheerfulness for she realizes that the mother is the power behind the throne with the boy.

When young manhood is reached, and the boy stands before her, robust in body, clear in mind and pure in heart, she puts her arms about him, and with a mother's kiss on his cheek, he goes out to meet the battles of life with the best equipment that a mother's love and thoughtful tenderness can furnish.

Will he win? That all depends upon himself. He possesses knowledge and ability, but the disposition and ambition to apply it, rests with himself. The great world which he has entered, is not home, and in the settling down experience, the most important that comes to young manhood, if dissipation or bad associations influence the life, the route to wreckage is sharp and decisive.

These are not the only dangers. Weakness follows neglect, just as surely, though not quite as rapidly as it follows dissipation.

There are many weak arms that are not in splints, and many weak minds that are not classed as feeble minded.

Life, from the cradle to its final resting place, demands activity and there is no front rank for the timid or loiterer in any department. This fact is not always appreciated, and because of it, many good people fall in accomplishment.

Hard, persistent, intelligent work, is the power behind the throne in human endeavor. The kingdom is worth possessing.

NOT RECONCILED.

"The United States pension agent facetiously refers to the patient 'busted' in his Whitewater Register. But the term is a misnomer. The busted are not patient. They do not take their busting good-naturedly or philosophically, as people should who go into any kind of a game, political or otherwise. Whatever trouble there is in the party of this state is owing to this fact. The 'busted' put up the best fight they could under the circumstances. The circumstances were not altogether unfavorable, either. To be sure, they had the wrong end of the contest, but everything else was in their favor. Maybe they bungled, but that is not the fault of their opponents. The consoling remark of an old whist player to his opponent is recalled: 'Of course, if a man gets the cards and don't know how to play them he can't blame the other fellows.' The patient busted may have come to believe that they did not get the cards.

"As we have already said, whatever unpleasant conditions exist in the state at this time arise from the impatience of the busted over being busted. These busted brethren die hard—too hard. Of course, they never expected that they would get bowled over; and this makes it harder. They are not only impatient—they are disappointed. They can't say they expected it, for they didn't. They would make a more imposing figure if they were to cultivate a spirit of acquiescence, acknowledge that they were not only beaten fairly, but to a standstill, and either give up altogether, or tell their late antagonists that they will see them later. About all the rank and file of the faction has done this—did it the day they found themselves floored, and have no bitterness in their hearts. But persons like the pension agent take it harder and ever so much more seriously. They can't comprehend how it would have happened. It doesn't seem possible to them that anything they wanted so intensely could be snatched from them. It is doubtful if they will recover from the shock until after election, and it doesn't much matter."—Milwaukee Free Press.

The above screed represents the sort of reconciliation advocated by the governor's organ in Milwaukee. If it makes any votes for the ticket in November it will be a surprise. Conservative republicans were invited to leave the party at the convention, and the invitation has been renewed at every favorable opportunity, but they won't go. Republicanism is older than La Folletteism and it still lives.

Mayor Rose is adding nothing to his party strength by conducting a personal campaign. The people are open to argument and conviction, but personal abuse is not argument, and when it falls on a man who simply stays in his shell, it is never very harmful. The primary law and the tax question are live issues, and the whirlwind candidate has plenty of ammunition for a good campaign.

Speaker Henderson acted prematurely in withdrawing from the campaign. When a man gets too big for his clothes, he seldom spends time to consult his friends.

The republican party is abundantly able to deal with the tariff question. The country is not demanding free trade, and has no disposition to adopt democratic fallacies.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee News: Wisconsin democrats at least may sound the free trade tocsin without turning a somersault.

State Journal: No one has proposed to adapt that beautiful poem "Father's at the Helm" to the hour of peril with the automobile.

Green Bay Gazette: Talk about the trouble in the republican state convention? It was a love feast in comparison with the democratic eruption.

Indianapolis News: The republicans of Vermont are not worried because they did not elect the governor, but the returns show that they may be driven to drink.

New York Tribune: If the prices for anthracite keep on rising, it will be stored in safe-deposit vaults, like United States bonds and other treasures of the highest values.

Oshkosh Times: A Bonnington young woman says the cause of so much rain in Vermont this summer is the condensation of the vapors of the male sex over the political situation. It will be remembered that there has been an awful lot of rain in Wisconsin this year, too.

Oshkosh Northwestern: If the women of the state are planning to take advantage of the law permitting them to vote at the coming election of state and county superintendents they are certainly keeping their secret to themselves in a remarkable manner.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Santos-Dumont is building a passenger air ship with which he will engage in the transportation business. He probably takes some stock in the gambler's belief that there is a fool born every minute and he expects for that reason to do a rushing business.

Chicago Record-Herald: New York automobile scorches threaten to retaliate on people who have tried to have speed regulations adopted. It would seem, however, that the scorches did as much retaliating as was necessary before the other fellows did anything.

Kenosha News: In an interview just before his death the late A. M. Palmer, the experienced theatrical manager, said: "Of all methods of reaching the public the daily newspapers are by far the best. I say this after years of practical experience covering all kinds of publicity."

FRESHMAN CLASS TO BE WELCOMED

SENIORS WILL GIVE RECEPTION IN THEIR HONOR.

TO ENTERTAIN FACULTY ALSO

Unique Social Event Will Take Place at the High School Building Next Saturday Evening.

On next Saturday evening at the Janesville High school, the Senior class will give a reception for the Freshman class and for the members of the faculty. This will be a High school social event and was suggested by Supt. H. C. Buell, who found his plan eagerly endorsed by the Seniors.

Freshman classes entering the High school, have become so accustomed to a mild form of hazing, which consists mainly of open ridicule and an abnormal and persistent interest manifested by the upper classes in the affairs of the new-comers, that each class is prepared to endure an ordeal of torture for several weeks while they are adapting themselves to their new surroundings. This results in the basical self-consciousness which is such a source of delight to the members of the other classes.

An Innovation
Consequently this year's class was not at first inclined to regard the coming reception seriously, fearing that in some way it was to prove a practical joke. It is certainly a new experience for Freshmen to be welcomed into the High School with honors conferred by the disaffected Seniors and next Saturday evening's extension of student courtesy will be an event to be remembered with pleasure by the members of the entertaining class as well as by the Freshmen and the High school instructors, who will also be guests of honor.

Arrangement Committee
Details for the reception have not been definitely arranged as yet. The evening will be devoted to various games and informal sociability and light refreshments will be served. The arrangements for the reception are in the hands of a general arrangement committee, consisting of Winifred Fife, Josephine Fenton and Charles Galbraith. This committee has appointed the following sub-committees to assist them:

Other Committee
Refreshment Committee—Irma Keller, Laurence Doty, Alma Bricksen, Helen Estes.
Decorations Committee—Harold Hall, Mary Curless, Irene Crowley, Gardner Kavelege, Mary Roberts.
Amusement Committee—Elizabeth McKee, Stow Lovejoy, Belle MacGregor, Ida Stoddard, Kramer Doty.
Reception Committee—Winifred Fife, Josephine Fenton, Stow Lovejoy, Will Curless, Clara Schumaker.

GALLUP-BICKEL CASE GOES OVER

In the Absence of District Attorney Jackson the Suit is Continued.

Thomas Bickel and Mrs. Louie Gallup, of Milton Junction, the parties to the celebrated injunction issued by Court Commissioner Carpenter on August 7 and who disregarded the injunction and were arrested for adultery came up for a hearing this morning in the municipal court.

District Attorney Jackson had to be in Beloit today on legal business so an adjournment was taken until Tuesday the 23rd, at ten o'clock.

Out on Bail
Bickel and Mrs. Gallup both succeeded in securing bail and were allowed their liberty until the time set for the hearing. Bickel's bond is for $300 and Mrs. Gallup's for $500.

Have Notoriety
On account of the unusual character of the injunction issued by Court Commissioner Carpenter, Bickel and Mrs. Gallup have attained considerable notoriety and the outcome of their case is being watched with considerable interest.

Still Held
Even if they should succeed in getting free from the charge of adultery they will still have the injunction proceedings hanging over them.

Bort, Bailey & Co.
Mr. and Mrs. Cutting and two children, who have been visiting their aunt, Mrs. Conla Bacon, left yesterday morning for their home in Salt Lake City.

Next Monday and Tuesday the firm of Bort, Bailey & Co. have their semi-annual remnant sale of dress goods. See large announcement.

Your hair has a dry dead look. A few electric scalp treatments will overcome this trouble. How about those hairs on your face? Are they beautifying? You should consult me, Mme Winsor, 302 Jackson Blk.

Hundreds of dress goods remnants at deep cut prices next Monday and Tuesday at Bort, Bailey & Co.'s semi-annual remnant sale.

Wearing glasses constantly in after-life may be avoided if the child eyes have early attention. If it cannot see the characters upon the board easily, or holds its book too close or too far away or is drowsy and listless and has a headache, it needs glasses that will check the trouble. W. F. Hayes' work and prices will suit you. Mr. Hayes' office days, with F. C. Cook & Co., are on Saturdays and Mondays.

FIFTY MILLION TRUST IN CATTLE IS FORMED

Chicago Stock Yards Commission Firms Organize to Control Trade and Reduce Expenses.

New York, Sept. 20.—All arrangements are completed for the organization of the cattle trust, which will have a capital of $50,000,000 and will monopolize the cattle business of the entire west.

Four and possibly six of the largest commission firms in the Chicago Union stock yards are negotiating for the combination.

Cattle growers will be advanced sufficient money to feed their herds and market them. In this manner the consolidated firms can control entire sections of the country, which means cutting the expense of operating almost in half.

Firms mentioned as certain to be parties to the combination are the Strahorn-Hutton-Evans Commission company, McCasland, Hoag & Turner, Smith, Haas & Co. and the Evans-Snyder-Quel company. The two others mentioned are the Drum-Flato commission company and Greer, Mills & Co.

GAS COMPANIES TO BE MERGED

Boston—Corporations to Eventually Furnish Product for Fuel.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 20.—All the gas companies of Greater Boston are to be merged, and eventually will furnish gas for fuel only, as the result of a conference here of some of the most prominent capitalists of the country. The Brookline company's plant will produce electricity, which will ultimately supersede gas completely as an illuminant. This means the eventual consolidation of all the gas and electric-light interests of Greater Boston.

EXPLOSION FOLLOWS A FIRE

Peculiar Accident in Mills at Joliet Causes Serious Loss.

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 20.—In the mills of the Great Western Cereal company a rail in one of the grinders started a blaze. The fire found its way up the chutes to the upper rooms, where a terrific explosion occurred. Portions of the roof were blown 100 feet and the windows and doors demolished. No one was injured. An automatic fire apparatus flooded the building and the fire was extinguished. The loss, it is estimated, will approximate $5,000.

AGED WOMAN HAS BAD FALL

Mrs. Margaret Speer, of La Prairie, Fractures Her Leg.

Mrs. Margaret Speer, who resides with her daughter, Mrs. Scott Smith, in the town of LaPrairie and who is eighty-four years of age, met with a serious and probably fatal accident yesterday morning when she fell, breaking her left leg near the hip. Mrs. Speer enjoyed good health for a woman of her years, was walking across the floor when she tripped and fell. Owing to her advanced age her recovery is very doubtful.

Margaret Homann

The funeral of Margaret Homann was held from the house on Armour street at one o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Paul Werth was the officiating clergyman. The remains were taken to Oak Hill cemetery for interment.

Misses Maud and Gladys Nicholson attended the closing day of the Elkhorn fair yesterday.

Evening Wisconsin: Mr. Rose has announced that he is going to use the jawbone in his efforts to pry a way into the state capitol for the Wisconsin democracy.

WILL MOVE HERE WITHIN TEN DAYS

HOUGH PORCH SHADE COMPANY IS COMING ANYWAY.

ENTIRE BONUS NOT RAISED

Will Erect a Fifteen Thousand Dollar Factory on Excellent Site in Spring Brook.

Mr. Don Farnsworth of the Hough Porch Shade company, returned from Chicago last evening where he has been for the last three days on business connected with the company. Everything pertaining to the removal of the company in this city is practically settled and the committee will meet this evening to arrange the final details.

Not Raised Yet
While all the $4,000 bonus asked by the company for their removal to this city has not been secured enough has been subscribed to induce them to remove the plant from Worcester.

The advantages secured to the company by their coming to Janesville more than offset the difference in the amount of bonus asked and the amount subscribed.

At Spring Brook
The factory will be located in Spring Brook, the site already having been secured. It is an ideal factory site, being adjacent to the St. Paul, Northwestern and Interurban roads, which will give the work excellent shipping facilities.

There will be no delay in the erection of the factory, plans for the buildings have already been secured and the specifications will soon be ready for the contractors. The plant will cost from twelve to fifteen thousand dollars and will be complete in every detail.

Many Employees
They will employ about one hundred hands when running full blast and the works will be a big addition to the manufacturing industries of the city.

BIDS FOR STREETS ARE OPENED

Five Firms Made Figures on the Work to Be Done on the City Streets.

The street assessment committee of the common council met in the city clerk's office at two o'clock this afternoon for the purpose of opening the bids for the improvement of Wall, Marion, North Franklin, North High and Harrison streets, all of which are to be macadamized. Taken all together it was a good sized amount of work and attracted a number of bidders, from this city and away.

Bids were submitted by Frank M. Savage, Blake Brothers, James Cape & Son, P. W. Ryan, Brown and Connors. At the time of going to press the totals had not been figured up but the detailed figures seemed to give the advantage to Brown and Connors, with P. W. Ryan and Blake Brothers nearest.

CLOSE DOWN FOR WEEK'S REPAIRS

Janesville Machine Works Will Install a Big Hamilton Corliss Engine.

Next week the Janesville Machine Co. will shut down for a week or ten days while a new engine is being installed. A Hamilton-Corliss engine of three hundred horse power will be put in to take the place of the present one. The new boilers have not yet been received and the present ones will be kept in service for some time longer. Every effort will be made to complete the repairs at as early a date as possible.

PRESIDENT STARTS ON WESTERN TOUR

Mr. Roosevelt is to Visit Eleven States on His Journey, Which Will Cover 5,438 Miles.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 20.—President Roosevelt is well started on his 5,438 miles' tour of the Northwest, during which he will speak in eleven states. He travels in a splendidly appointed train of six Pullman cars, accompanied by Secretary Cortelyou, Assistant Secretaries Loeb and Barnes, with most of the White House force, and for the next nineteen days the White House will be on wheels.

The President in his speeches is prepared to discuss elaborately all the issues of the campaign—trusts, tariff, Cuban reciprocity and the Philippines. He will give Iowa all the tariff talk it wants and will probably endeavor to show that tariff reductions would be no cure for the encroachments of the trusts on the pockets of the people. He will carry the best sugar war into the enemy's country in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota.

Following is the schedule of the trip:

Sept. 20 (Saturday), Cincinnati; Sept. 21-23 (Sunday to Tuesday), Detroit; Sept. 23 (Tuesday), Indianapolis; Sept. 24 (Wednesday), Milwaukee; Sept. 25 (Thursday), Minneapolis; Sept. 25 (Thursday), St. Paul; Sept. 26 (Friday), Sioux City; Sept. 27 (Saturday), Omaha; Sept. 28 (Sunday), Topeka; Sept. 29 (Monday), Kansas City; Sept. 30 (Tuesday), Des Moines; Oct. 1 (Wednesday), St. Louis; Oct. 2 (Thursday), Springfield, Ill.; Oct. 3 (Friday), Chicago; Oct. 4-5 (Saturday and Sunday), Cleveland; Oct. 6 (Monday), Columbus, O.

GAZETTE GIVES BELOIT THE NEWS

TELLS LINE CITY PAPERS WHAT IS DOING.

REPORT IS AUTHENTICATED

Story of New Office Building in Beloit Learned Through The Gazette.

As the following clipping from the Beloit Daily News will show, there are occasions when Line City people are obliged to go out of town to learn the news about themselves:

"Beloit Daily News, Sept. 19. 'The following appeared last night in the Janesville Gazette:

'Beloit will have its first up-to-date office building in a short time. If current rumors are to be taken as authoritative, Mrs. Ella D. Adams, who owns the Yale bakery building just west of the bridge street bridge, is, according to report, about to erect a four-story structure over the river to the east of the Yale building.

'The Daily News wired to Mrs. Adams in Chicago for confirmation of the above. In reply she states:

'Chicago, Sept. 19.

'Beloit Daily News, Beloit Wis.—Know nothing of Janesville statement. Have plans for offices. Building will depend upon action of city.

"E. D. ADAMS."

Kennedy-Youngclaus.

On last Wednesday evening the home of Miss Clara Hallows of Whitewater, was the scene of a very pretty wedding at which the contracting parties were Miss Jennie Kennedy, of Whitewater, and John Youngclaus of the town of Harmony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. G. Huey, pastor of the Rock Prairie United Presbyterian church, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The home was artistically decorated with potted plants and choice cut flowers and after the ceremony a sumptuous wedding banquet was served.

The bride is the oldest daughter of James Kennedy, of Milwaukee, and is a young lady of culture and refinement. For some time she has been a student at the Whitewater State Normal school and is esteemed by all who know her. The groom is the oldest son of Mrs. Isabella Youngclaus of the town of Harmony and is one of the most substantial and popular young men of the community. For a number of years he has been assistant Sabbath School Superintendent and a ruling elder in the Rock Prairie United Presbyterian church.

The number of handsome presents which the young couple received speak eloquently of the high esteem in which they are held. They went at once to their future home on the groom's farm in the town of Harmony, taking with them the best wishes of many friends.

DEATH FOLLOWS PANIC IN CHURCH

EIGHTY PERSONS ARE INJURED

Two Thousand Delegates Mistake a Cry for Alarm of Fire and Rush Over One Another in Their Efforts to Reach Place of Safety.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 20.—An awful incident of the national convention of negro Baptists took place here Friday night just as Booker T. Washington concluded his address before 2,000 assembled delegates.

As he was taking his seat, Judge Billon engaged in an altercation with one of the choir leaders in the gallery and these near him began crying "fighting, fighting."

The crowd thought that it was "fire," and rushed for the doors. Attempting to stop the panic a negro climbed on a bench and called for "quiet." Again the cry was misunderstood and the panic increased.

Fews of Dead.

Crowding through the narrow aisles and doors, hundreds were knocked down and trampled under foot. A fire alarm was turned in and the whole force of the city responded. Soon the ambulance corps was also on the spot and the work of clearing away the dead bodies and relieving the wounded began. They were taken out and arranged in rows in front of the church, being carried thence as rapidly as possible to the hospitals.

Washington Uninjured.

The exact number of the dead and wounded cannot be given, but 100 are said to be dead and eighty injured. The calamity is reckoned as one of the greatest that has ever befallen the city. Booker T. Washington was not hurt.

It is believed that the death list will exceed 100, as a number of the wounded are fatally hurt. All the dead except one man are negroes.

Strong Crush Weak.

The excited throngs in the gallery first began pouring out. The exit was down a stairway to the vestibule and then out through a very narrow stairway, which juts into the building. In this narrow passage the crowd became congested and men and women trampled each other under foot and struggled in one indescribable mass. The strong bore down the weak and crushed them to death. Heavy men threw themselves against frail women and the wildest disorder followed.

Throng Is Panic-Stricken.

Meanwhile Booker T. Washington and those nearest the altar learned what was transpiring in the vestibule, and the great educator and several ministers hastened to the place and sought to quiet the mad throng, but to no purpose, and not until the police and fire department arrived was anything like order restored.

Every ambulance and dead wagon in the city was called and soon the hospitals and undertaking shops were filled. The majority of the persons killed were women.

Majority Are Women.

At midnight eighty-eight bodies had reached the undertaking shops, of which forty-eight were those of females. Among the dead are Rev. John H. Hillard of Texarkana, Ark.; Rev. William Johnson of Pratt City, Ala.; R. K. Smith, Birmingham; Rachel Wood, East Lake, Ala.; Edna Gardner and Alice Jones, Birmingham; Rev. Anderson Pomo, Montgomery, Ala.

Policeman Ehlke was fatally hurt in trying to stop the panic. Mayor Drennen has ordered the undertakers to hold all the bodies for identification.

DECIDES FOR THE CORPORATION

United States Steel May Convert Preferred Stock Into Bonds.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 20.—The Court of Errors and Appeals, by a vote of 8 to 3, decided in favor of the United States Steel corporation in the suit brought by Mrs. Berger to restrain the corporation from converting $200,000,000 7 per cent preferred stock into 5 per cent second-mortgage bonds.

Vice Chancellor Emery in the court below granted an injunction restraining the company from carrying out its purpose. The decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals is a reversal of the vice chancellor and leaves the United States Steel corporation free to carry out its project so far as the Berger litigation is concerned.

Engine Breaks Man's Neck.

Hoboken, Ind., Sept. 20.—Paul Dement was instantly killed here. While standing close to the railroad track with a crowbar on his shoulder an engine struck the end of the bar with such force as to break his neck.

Fireworks Wreck Store.

Elwood, Ind., Sept. 20.—Exploding fireworks wrecked the store of Thomas Jones. The windows were smashed, the show cases demolished and the contents of the store scattered. No one was injured.

Peanut Roaster Explodes.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 20.—One woman dead and three others injured, one of whom will die, is the result of an explosion of a patent peanut roaster here.

THRICE HANGED BEFORE HE DIES

Rope Breaks on First Attempt, and Life Exists After Second.

Vienna, Sept. 20.—The hanging of Zeco Kamenow, a murderer, at Widenstad was attended by several sensational scenes. The murderer had secured a knife which he had concealed on his person and when he was being taken to the scaffold he stabbed a soldier and three warden's guards before he was overpowered and forced upon the scaffold. On the first drop the rope broke and Kamenow fell to the floor half dead, but still conscious. Another rope was secured and the second drop seemed to be successful, but when the body was cut down it was found that life was not extinct. A third drop was necessary before the man was killed.

SAID TO HAVE SEIZED ISLAND

Report That British Flag Has Been Raised Over Potos.

New York, Sept. 20.—Officials here have been told that the British government has raised the British flag on the island of Potos, which is near Trinidad, notwithstanding the protest of the Venezuelan government, says a dispatch to the Herald from Port of Spain, Trinidad. Sovereignty over the island of Potos has been in dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela for a long time.

FARMER SHOTS WOMAN HUNTER

Also Wounds Her Escort and Then Takes His Own Life.

Brandon, Manitoba, Sept. 20.—Thomas Law of the milling firm of Alexander & Law Brothers and Miss Sherwin, a social favorite, shot two prairie chickens on the farm of L. Rowe, twelve miles from the city. This so enraged Rowe that he fired twice at the hunters, shooting Miss Sherwin in the stomach and Law in the knee. Rowe ran home and swallowed the contents of a bottle of gopher poison, dying in a few minutes. Miss Sherwin is not likely to recover.

Death of Dewey's Yeoman.

New York, Sept. 20.—Patrick J. Hyland, 36 years old, a yeoman on the cruiser Brooklyn, is dead at his home in this city. Hyland, who entered the service in 1883, was one of the best known petty officers in the navy. He was Admiral Dewey's chief yeoman on the Olympia at the battle of Manila Bay. He was aboard the Trenton when that vessel was lost in the hurricane in the harbor of Apia, Samoa.

Odd Fellows Select Baltimore.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 20.—After an exciting contest Baltimore secured the next Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, winning from Hot Springs, Ark., by a vote of 95 to 93. The Hot Springs delegation was surprised as well as disappointed by the result. Eureka Springs, Mo., and Milwaukee withdrew from the contest prior to taking a vote.

WHAT MRS. HAYTER SUFFERED.

"I had been sick for more than a year with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Lucy Hayter, of Jackson, Jack Co., Texas. "Several different doctors attended me, but none did me any good. One doctor said that I never could be cured, that I had Bright's Disease. I suffered nearly death at times; but the doctors called it Bright's Disease, but I did not know it was. My mother begged me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

WHAT DR. PIERCE SAID.

"With but little hope I wrote to Dr. Pierce, and he said 'he could cure me.' I began to take his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and although I had given up to die, I began to improve from the first day, and by the time I had taken twenty-two bottles I was entirely cured. I weigh more than ever before in my life and am entirely well."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures through the stomach diseases of heart, liver, lungs, kidneys, etc., which have their origin in disease of the stomach and its associate organs.

Sick persons are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

moment the trio stood eyeing each other.

Then the Wolf notched another arrow.

Laughing Eyes did not move.

The Wolf drew back the shaft until the chipped stone rested on the hickory stave.

Laughing Eyes met his gaze steadily. The Coward sought to push her behind him, but she restrained him with a motion.

Then the Wolf raised the bow, and sent the arrow humming—over the tree tops.

Laughing Eyes smiled.

Then, with his bow, the Wolf pointed toward the camp. Laughing Eyes understood. She took the Coward by the hand and they started.

"We will go," she said.

When the Wolf told of what he had seen, the camp was wildly excited.

The braves were agitated, and old Long Hair turned pale with rage.

Laughing Eyes and the Coward had not yet returned, so a party was sent for them. They met the lovers at the edge of the wood, strolling along, hand in hand. The old chief motioned his daughter to his side. She came. The braves surrounded the Coward, and he knew an attempt to escape meant death.

That night there was a pow-wow. The chiefs talked the matter over, and decided that the Coward should die.

"The Wolf shall kindle the fire about him at the stake, and shoot him full of arrows as he burns," old Long Hair declared.

"And Laughing Eyes shall become the Wolf's wife while the flames dance."

Laughing Eyes heard the sentence from her place of hiding.

When the old chief returned to his tepee, he found Laughing Eyes at work.

"What is to be done?" she asked. The old chief told her.

"I am glad," she said lightly. "He deserves to die. He gave me no chance to scorn him. But I did not want the Wolf to kill him."

And she sang as she resumed her work of brewing herb tea.

Oh, deceitful Laughing Eyes! What misery was born when you turned your tongue to lying—for Long Hair, for the Coward, and for yourself!

The Coward lay in a tepee. So tight were the throngs that bound him, that they cut his flesh. So snug did the gag in his mouth fit that his lips were black and swollen.

"Dog!" said the Wolf, as he looked at his prisoner. "Tomorrow you die by fire, and I shall wed Laughing Eyes while you burn. She has told all; she loves not you, but wants to see you burn."

The Wolf's words stung the Coward.

"Cruel Laughing Eyes," he thought, "but now I can burn in silence. I have nothing for which to live."

The Wolf kept watch outside the tepee. The hours sped away. At midnight Laughing Eyes came. Without a word she threw her arms about the Wolf. The Coward saw her, and sought to break his bonds, but the rawhide only cut deeper into his flesh.

"My father has told?" she asked as she kissed the Wolf. "The Coward was the cause. See! I have brought you food and drink, prepared by my own hand. Let me see the Coward."

The Wolf let her into the tepee. Laughing Eyes looked at the captive in scorn.

"Snake!" she hissed. "I shall watch you burn!"

The Coward winced. Laughing Eyes fell upon the Wolf's neck.

The Coward with a mighty effort, threw the gag from his mouth.

"She-devil!" he cried, "I could rend your heart!"

"Not tonight," she answered mockingly, as the Wolf forced the gag back between the puffed up lips.

"I believe you," said the Wolf to Laughing Eyes, "come."

Together they went out. The Wolf ate and drank, while Laughing Eyes held him in her arms. She smoothed his hair, and caressed him. Then the Wolf grew drowsy, and finally slept.

"The winged root does its work well," said Laughing Eyes.

The Wolf lay in a stupor. Quickly drawing the Wolf's knife from his belt, Laughing Eyes bounded into the tepee. The Coward thought she had come to kill him. He made a desperate effort to free himself. Laughing Eyes thrust the blade between his wrists. He struggled, and the throngs that held his hands were severed. In an instant Laughing Eyes had cut the bonds on his feet. Then the Coward realized the situation.

Laughing Eyes had come to save him! How his heart bounded with joy. He tried to stand but could not. Laughing Eyes chafed his stiffened limbs. A moment later she thrust the Wolf's bow into the Coward's hand, and hung the quiver of arrows on his shoulder. Then she thrust the Wolf's eagle feathers into the Coward's hair. Neither said a word. Silently the Coward ripped open the side of the tepee, and together they ran to the beach. Laughing Eyes' canoe was drawn up on the shore. In it were parched corn and supplies. She took her seat in the bow, and the Coward pushed the craft into the moonlit ripples. With desperate strength he paddled and soon the canoe shot around a point into the shade of the high bank. They were out of sight now, but the Coward piled his paddle vigorously. With long strokes he sent the canoe spinning along. Into Lake Waubesa the canoe was urged, and the Coward headed for the mouth of the Yahara. Half an hour later the boat was dancin on the swift flowing waters. With consummate skill the Coward avoided the sunken rocks and snags that cause the creek to beat itself into foam as it rushes along.

All that night he paddled in silence. When day broke, he spoke to Laughing Eyes. She did not answer. Turning the canoe toward the shore, he paddled vigorously. As the birch bark grated on the sand, he bounded to her side.

"I am very ill," she said feebly. "I was so excited, I—"

Nature had given out. In vain the Coward ranged the wood in search of the berry that he knew would revive her.

Then he returned to the boat. Vigorously he piled the paddle and the canoe soon shot into the sluggish current of Rock River. Two hours' work brought him to the high bank, in the bend above Janesville. Laughing Eyes feebly pointed to the giant trees at its top. The Coward understood, and beached the boat on the sand bar at the right. Tenderly lifting Laughing Eyes in his arms, he struggled up to the top by a winding route through the woods. Fragrant boughs of fir were quickly gathered for her bed, and the Coward sat down to watch. Soon the sun sank below a row of black clouds, and spits of rain began to fall. Laughing Eyes sighed, and gripped his hand convulsively. He bent his head over her.

"I am dying," she said, "but I love you. I will go, but you are safe. I love, I love, I love—"

"You must live," cried the Coward, but his answer was a shudder—Laughing Eyes had gone hence.

The wall of a broken heart broke the air as the Coward realized that he was alone.

The cry startled the birds from their nest, so unearthly was its tone. Then the storm broke. Rain fell in torrents, and the thunder roared the earth; lightning flashes cleaved the heavens. The Coward was beside himself. With knife and tomahawk he began to chip out a grave in the soft sandstone. His frenzied motions showed that reason had fled. Like "one possessed" he worked. Water from the hills that stretched away from the face of the cliff poured into the grave, softening the stone so that the Coward could dig it out with ease. Then the tears came. They flowed from the maniac's eyes in streams that blinded him. Soon the grave was deep enough, and he placed Laughing Eyes therein, covering her with his blanket, and the bough of fir. Then he sat beside the grave, and wept.

When the escape was discovered there was great excitement in the camp. Soon the chase was begun, and a dozen canoes were quickly following the route that the fugitives had taken. The braves stopped for neither food nor rest. When the storm broke, the canoes were but three miles from the high cliff. As the Wolf's boat shot around the bend where now stands the handsome iron bridge of civilization, a flash of lightning illuminated the heavens and the earth. Then the Coward saw the boats, and the pursuers saw the Coward. Jumping to his feet, the Coward ran back from the cliff. The pursuers redoubled their efforts and as the second flash of lightning blazed, a stream of water gushed over the face of the bank. The boats grated on the sand. The universe was almost rent by a roar of thunder, and a belt of Jove nearly blinded the pursuers. Then the Coward sped toward the face of the cliff. High into the air he leaped, and turning, his little body shot toward the water head foremost. He struck with a mighty splash. The pursuers hastened to the spot. But the body did not come up. Then the flood broke loose from above. The surface water from the whole range of hills, which had hitherto been held back, found a new outlet through Laughing Eyes' grave. The flood swamped the canoes, and only the Wolf, who had started to scale the cliff before the Coward leaped, escaped. Painfully he worked his way to the top. Then he realized what had happened. An instant later his body was also spinning from the cliff to the water below. He sank in the same spot where the Coward had disappeared—and at which the ripples have radiated, winter and summer, ever since. Coward has haunted the spot, and impregnated a neighboring spring with the virtues that would have cured Laughing Eyes.

The floods—which had no outlet until the grave was dug—have washed away the stone a little, each spring, until the deep gorge of today is the result. Great trees have grown in the crevices in the rock since that eventful night. The scene is one of surpassing beauty in the summer, and the spot is much frequented by lovers and pleasure seekers—but few, perhaps, have ever heard the old Indian's pathetic "Romance of Savagery."

Negro hanged.

Baltimore, Sept. 20.—John Wesley Devine, colored, was hanged in the Baltimore Jail for the murder of Patrolman Charles J. Donahue last June.

Devine was married three weeks ago in jail, to the woman with whom he had been living and who was the indirect cause of the murder of the patrolman.

Executed for Double Murder.

Sturgis, S. D., Sept. 20.—Ernest Loveswar, a half-breed Indian, was hanged here for the murder of George Puck and George Ostrander of Sioux City, Iowa, in Puck's ranch near Red Owl, S. D. The crime was committed because Puck refused to lend the half-breed $20.

Hunter Is Killed.

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 20.—D. W. Parish, clerk of the United States court at Tyler, was instantly killed while hunting by his gun being accidentally discharged. He was a native of Illinois and prominent in Masonic and Knights of Pythias orders.

Lord Salisbury Is Ill.

Lucerne, Switzerland, Sept. 20.—Lord Salisbury, the former British premier, is confined to his room here, owing to a chill and a severe attack of gout. The symptoms are not yet considered "exceptionally grave."

FOR ALL WHO SHAVE. COKE

ANTISEPTIC

Cream Foam MAKES SHAVING EASY.

Read what EX-GOVERNOR OF WIS., GEO. W. PECK, says:

Milwaukee, June 30, 1902.

Dear Sirs: I have been using your "Cream Foam" for shaving. It is the best stuff I ever used. Previously I have used a French paste, which is far better than soap, but nothing like yours. I think I shall always use "Cream Foam," and I shave every morning. Yours Truly, GEO. W. PECK.

This new Shaving Cream is thoroughly antiseptic. Leaves the face soft and smooth and imparts a feeling of freshness to the skin. It requires no rubbing in, therefore saves much time. It softens the hardest beard and will remain soft and moist for fifteen minutes.

There is No Danger of Contagion.

Leading barbers, after testing it, have adopted the Coke Cream Foam exclusively and are delighted with the result.

It Saves Time for the barber and patron

Coke Antiseptic Cream Foam is put up in one-pound jars for barbers' use; in 25c collapsible tubes for private use. At druggists and barbers generally. Send 10c for large sample or 25c for full size tube.

A Friend's Advice WILL OFTEN HELP YOU GREATLY

Read What a
Janesville Citizen Says.

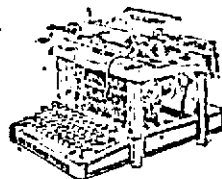

You may hesitate to listen to the advice of strangers, but the testimony of friends or residents of Janesville is worth your most careful attention. It is an easy matter to investigate such proof as this. Then the evidence must be conclusive. Read the following:

Mr. H. W. Rodgers, carpenter, of 210 South Main street, says: "My wife had kidney complaint and rheumatism for five years, suffering a great deal from pain across the loins. Doan's Kidney Pills, sold by the People's Drug Co., brought much longer for and gratifying results. At first there was no visible change and she came to the conclusion that they were like all other remedies she had tried, but finally the aching and the distress in the small of her back disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for U. S. Also on sale at King's Pharmacy. Remember the name Doane's and take no other.

MRS. FRANK GOULD GIVES BIRTH TO GIRL

Little Miss, Born on a Yacht, Will Be Baptized Helen in Honor of Her Aunt.

New York, Sept. 20.—A daughter was born to Mrs. Frank Gould on board the Gould yacht Helentia at anchor off Oyster Bay. She will be baptized Helen after her aunt. Immediately after the christening the yacht will sail for the Mediterranean, where it will cruise all winter. Mother and child are doing well.

Before her marriage Mrs. Gould was Miss Helen Kelly, a daughter of the late Edward Kelly, one of the sons of Eugene Kelly, a banker, who on his death left a large fortune to each of his four sons. The wedding of Miss Kelly and Mr. Gould was celebrated quietly on December 2, 1901, at the home of the bride's mother, 17 East thirty-second street.
